Guide to Alabama Grantmakers- Resource

This joint publication of Alabama Giving and the Foundation Center provides a listing of over 800 Alabama grantmaking foundations and serves as a unique resource for individuals, nonprofits, religious and other service organizations throughout the state. Any fundraiser or organization seeking funding now has a consolidated listing of Alabama foundations that will fund their geographic area and field of interest. This resource is perfect for start up nonprofits or fundraisers as well with its sample grant application and sample financial budget.

Giving Makes Change- Documentary on Philanthropy in Alabama

Enjoy heartwarming stories of giving in Alabama. Giving Makes Change first aired on Alabama Public Television in December of 2005. Now we offer DVD copies. Philanthropy stories highlighted include:

- Kathryn Tucker Windham, author of a compelling story of one man's gift of love and forgiveness to the Selma-Dallas County Library.
- John Oliver, a retired man who stays active in a family foundation and helped start the Walker Area Community Foundation
- Tut Riddick, who improved the quality of life in the Black Belt region of Alabama through creativity and inspiration from the arts
- John Saint, a Mobile businessman whose employees join him in feeding their community-literally
- Cristy Moody who organized a group of young people and engaged them in community giving
- Willie Grant, a share cropper's son who now provides scholarships to young African Americans pursuing education in the sciences.
- AND OTHERS
